When you're feeling anxious or stressed, especially in your day to day life, it's hard not to take out that aggression on your art. For artists who, like me, are driven enough to paint when they're in the mood but often forced into the grip of perfectionism when there's no distraction around is sketchup for cracking. I use this app regularly and highly recommend it to people who need a break from trying to make things perfect. It makes my process less nerve wracking and more creative!
